Banking & Finance

Our Banking & Finance Group advises a range of financial entities on commercial lending, operations and operational litigation, bankruptcy and creditors' rights and distressed real estate.

We have extensive experience on both the state and national levels with a variety of commercial lending transactions, including secured and unsecured, first-lien, second-lien and mezzanine financings, revolving credit facilities, term loans, syndicated loans, letters of credit, fixed and floating loans with interest rates tied to LIBOR, treasury bills, prime rate and other reference bases, and related ISDA agreements.

Our attorneys have represented national, international and community banks, domestic and foreign investors, funds, borrowers in a number of industries, and sponsors in originating, syndicating, transferring, refinancing, and in workouts of, these transactions.

To further serve our clients' needs, our commercial finance attorneys have access to experienced attorneys readily available within the firm who practice in a variety of supporting legal roles such as bankruptcy, local, state and federal taxation, corporate and business organizations, securities, environmental and healthcare.

We represent a wide range of financial entities, including national banking institutions, community banks, real estate investment trusts (REITs), savings and loan associations, venture capitalists, the real estate lending departments of insurance companies, asset-based lenders, and leasing companies.
