

Services & Industries Construction

Our Construction Law practice provides attorneys and paralegals who are soundly experienced in matters affecting the construction industry, including the many business, contract and insurance concerns of owners, general contractors, subcontractors and vendors.

Our attorneys have significant experience in all phases of legal representation of these entities, including litigation and arbitration proceedings where necessary, and in negotiating and drafting both standard and complex contract documents. In particular, we provide counsel on the many interdisciplinary problems which can be involved in handling construction defect claims and error and omission design claims.
