Lowndes CEO and President William T. Dymond, Jr., discussed how President Biden's tax plan will have an impact on Orlando's future growth with Capital Analytics Associates for the publication's special professional services and Orlando section, entitled "What to Look for in the Legislative Space in 2022."

"President Biden's tax plan will have a tremendous impact on businesses. Capital investment is critical for growth, development and innovation, so it's important not to overtax those kinds of activities and discourage investments," said Dymond.

Dymond continued, "The other important legislation is the infrastructure bill. Infrastructure can potentially be a boon for the economy. That is a very important piece also for Central Florida as the infrastructure has aged — in part thanks to tremendous tourism — and needs to be rebuilt to meet future growth and demand."
